National Family History Month is in full swing across the nation and there are plenty more special events and activities happening through to the end of August in Brisbane and across regional areas. Jump on to the NFHM website here to find something to fascinate and educate.

Last month we reported on the popularity of our Members Lounge Family History Toolkit session exploring the Queensland State Archives. We're delighted to advise that a YouTube recording of Shauna Hicks' excellent presentation is now available to members via the QFHS website here.

The next Family History Toolkit workshop on Tuesday 29 August is likely to prove just as popular. We all know how important it is to find the evidence to verify our ancestors' details and fill in some of the gaps in our family history trail. Often we can end up with a list of possible records and we need to weed out the false leads. At the upcoming session QFHS Fellow and senior researcher Sue Reid will focus on Negative Evidence and how to use it to advance your research. This interactive workshop will be held on-line. You are welcome to contribute to the workshop or simply observe. There will be preparation work to do if you wish to take part so we suggest that you register here as early as possible.

If you're enjoying the opportunity to learn on-line don't forget the following sessions on offer in the coming weeks:

4 Sept 7.30pm (online) What's New in Family History?

8 Sept 10am (online) Learn@QFHS - You've got Mail: Cobb and Co

With Spring just around the corner it's that time of year when we often re-visit our research plan and perhaps do a bit of re-prioritising to make sure we can fill in those gaps. It's also a good time to re-visit some of our on-line resources such as the Queensland School Pupils Index and the Books Names Accumulation Index. These records are regularly expanded and updated so if you didn't get a record match previously you may be surprised this time around. Login to the QFHS website here and select online access to review the datasets and collections available to you.

Finally to the growing contingent of members across Queensland regions we hope you're getting great value out of our expanding range of on-line presentations, conversations and workshops. We'd love to receive your feedback so we can keep improving our services and resources. If you're coming to Brisbane do let us know so we can ensure you receive some dedicated support when you visit the Family History Research Centre. We also host visits from regional Family History Groups. If your local group would be keen for an excursion to the big smoke get in touch by emailing secretary@qfhs.org.au and we'll do our best to make it a valuable and productive visit.

Good hunting researchers. We'll keep bringing you news of interesting events, useful sites and the latest online resources via Snippets each month. If you discover something interesting don't forget to send it through so we can share it with your fellow Family Historians.

Best wishes,

Pat Smith

What's news?

2023 - AUGUST IS NATIONAL FAMILY HISTORY MONTH

Theme: Secrets and Lies - Using AI responsibly and handling sensitive subjects in your family history research.

A series of talks, workshops, seminars, and information sessions – many of them free - will be held throughout Australia and New Zealand during August in celebration of National Family History Month.

If you missed the Opening event of National Family History Month, you can catch up by viewing it here. A fascinating insight into how AI can be used in family history research.

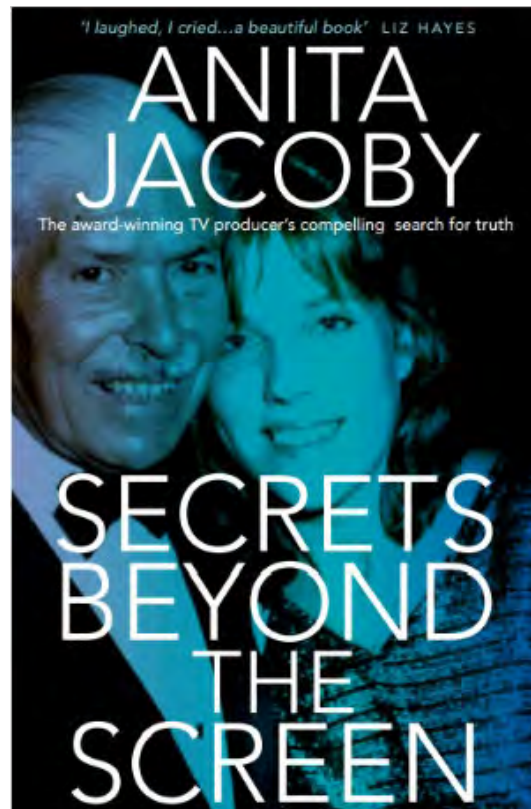

There's plenty more to see and do during the remainder of August. Check out the calendar of events here.

And don't forget to enter the fabulous prize draw. Check out the competition page here for all the great prizes and information on how to enter.

NFHM celebrations conclude at 12 noon, Thursday 31 August at the Metcalfe

Auditorium at the State Library of New South Wales.

Anita Jacoby AM one of Australia's most awarded television producers will share the experience of researching her own family history for her book Secrets Beyond the Screen published in 2022, including how to deal with sensitive material in family history research.

National Family History Month is an initiative of the Australasian Federation of Family History Organisations Inc (AFFHO).

In Search of...The Australian Welfare Experience

Saturday 26 August
1.00 - 6.00 pm (via Zoom)

As part of National Family History Month the Society of Australian Genealogists is hosting a virtual conference dedicated to uncovering information and resources about the Australian Welfare Experience.

The program features a number of high profile speakers including our own QFHS Vice-President Alex Daw. Full program details including speakers, cost and registration are available on the SAG website here.

This conference will be recorded, so you can attend live or watch later.

Finding Your Family - A Beginners Course in Research Summer Program 2024

QFHS have just announced the dates for the upcoming summer offering of its popular beginners training program. Commencing on Monday 12 February the course runs for six weeks and includes weekly online tutorials covering home sources, organisation, BDM certificates, archives, libraries, newspapers, overseas research, and much more. The program is a comprehensive introduction for those wanting to start researching their family and includes relevant training materials and up-to-date information from experienced QFHS Tutors.

You can read more information here.

We recommend early registration as the program is limited to 10 participants.

President's Update

Dear members

I hope you are enjoying National Family History Month and taking advantage of the many events and presentations that are being held across Queensland and around the country. QFHS Vice President, Alex Daw, is the NFHM co-ordinator for the Australasian Federation of Family History Organisations (AFFHO). The speakers Alex had arranged for the NFHM Opening Ceremony spoke on the interesting, exciting and thought-provoking ways Artificial Intelligence (AI) could be and were being used in family history projects, large and small. Like it or not, the future is rushing at us at great speed!

This year, QFHS is celebrating NFHM by highlighting our impressive 'usual' offerings and inviting our local community to join us (see further comment below). The end of August is not far off but there are still some stimulating events on offer. Don't forget to tell friends, family and neighbours that they're welcome to register as a visitor at any of our 'usual' events to learn more about the benefits of QFHS membership and the fascination of Family History research.

The NFHM of August traditionally includes our Open Day and, once again, we have been stymied in our plans for such an event – this time by our inability to identify the building appropriately with signage and complete other tasks we thought essential to opening the premises for inspection and making a good first impression. Thankfully, the reason for that delay has been explained by Brisbane City Council's decision to require the facility be put to tender. BCC advised recently that the tender process for the lease of 46 Delaware Street is now open together with other community facility sites. Current community facility tenders can be viewed here <https://www.brisbane.qld.gov.au/things-to-see-and-do/council-venues-and-precincts/community-facilities-leasing-sport-and-recreation/tenure-information-for-council-leases-and-licences/prospective-tenants/community-facility-tenders>

Tenders close midnight 8 September.

I feel it's fair to say that the many hours of work contributed by the Management Committee in the first quarter of the year in updating the Society's Strategic Plan and by program leaders and the MC leading up to the AGM with the production of a fact-filled Annual Report 2023 ought stand us in good stead in the tender application process. Both documents amply illustrate the significant extent of our volunteer community, the range and value of services we provide our community - both members and non-members - and our thoughtful planning for a healthy future.

In the normal course of every month from February to December, your Society offers no fewer than eight events open to the general community and flyers advertising the NFHM August events were delivered to over 1000 homes in our neighbourhood. Thank you to the following Library Assistants who took a walk in the neighbourhood to letterbox drop: Marion Atkinson, Denniston Furey, Chris Griffiths, Helen Johnson and Anne MacKay. They were supplemented by Management Committee member, Carmel Bell, who included the task in her 10,000 steps a day regime. We appreciate their assistance to raise awareness in our immediate community of who we are and what we do.

In addition to the (minimum) eight member activities per month we advertised to our community, we have at least four other events that are exclusive to members and provided under the Members Lounge banner. Every month, Alex Daw produces a highly informative presentation for What's New? Alex includes what's new in the Society (introducing new resources and new volunteers for specific roles) as well as what's new in the family history research world. As with most Members Lounge activities, these sessions are interactive with participants adding value to the activity by sharing their knowledge and expertise.

Thanks to the suggestion from Wendy Angliss (Assistant Treasurer and Co-Convenor of the Colonial India and Far East Interest SIG) and some website magic from our Web Content updater, Debra Ricks, these presentations will shortly be available on our website here. While the valuable member interactions are not included (for that you'll need to attend), I'm sure you'll find there's something for everyone in Alex's presentations.

But why not gain the full benefit of What's New? Register now for September, October and November by visiting the Members Lounge: What's New? via the link provided above.

We're very pleased to have engaged one of our senior researchers, Sue Reid, for the next Family History Toolkit session on Tuesday 29 August. Toolkit is designed to assist us develop skills in family history research and this time we're addressing Negative Evidence – when that 'facts' aren't laid out nicely in an obituary or immigration record, how do we use what's not apparent or is even missing to find an answer? Sue will instruct and help us develop skills and processes in using Negative Evidence that have the potential to lead us to these discoveries more often and more reliably. Don't miss out - register now!

Our Members Lounge Social event for August will be another coffee morning on Monday 28th, this time with the theme of *Stories of the Women in our Families. We know that women's stories are often difficult to uncover so let's celebrate National Family History Month together by sharing a photo or an artefact and a few facts or deductions about one of the women in your family history. We've decided on a Monday this time so Library Assistants don't miss out due to their commitments to the Family History Research Centre.

Location: Cafe 63 Enoggera, 72 Pickering St Enoggera - behind Beaumont Tiles.

Time: 10am - 12pm

We will arrange our seating in small tables & will 'round robin' our way around so we can easily hear each other's shared stories.

Please register here so we know how many members are attending and can advise the venue.

We're keen to make solid connections with like-minded organisations and we know many members have links to their local historical societies. If you are one such member, would you be prepared to take on an informal liaison role for QFHS, keeping us informed of activities to which we may contribute? If so, we'd love to hear from you.

We're also interested in forming supportive associations with smaller family history groups throughout Queensland so we'd be pleased to hear from you if you are a member of such a group as well as of QFHS. Such liaison roles would not be individually arduous but could be of significant benefit to all groups.

All members are encouraged to attend the upcoming Members General Meeting Wednesday 13 Sept 7.30 - 8.45 pm

This is one of three major reporting events in the life cycle of the Management Committee - the other two being a Members General Meeting in March and the AGM in June.

The meeting will be held online. Registration is required & may be completed here.

The Draft Agenda is available on the website. To assist the meeting to run efficiently and allow sufficient time to be allocated to notified business, please advise the Management Committee if you would like items added to the agenda.

Finally, we have a wonderful resource at QFHS – our Print Library. The Reference Collection and Lending Library of approximately 10,000 items is managed by a team of volunteers who invest many hours a week in their maintenance. The new premises has allowed for the location of this valuable resource in the centre of our space and this has encouraged browsing and the discovery of many 'gems'. We encourage all members to visit the Research Centre and spend some time having a good fossick about in the collection. Of course, conduct searches in vLibrary beforehand to focus your searching but nothing beats a good browse!

In many ways, the Print Library is an artefact of past times when the only way to access information was to visit a library and browse the collection. One of our challenges is to get the contents of the Print Library to our members who cannot readily visit the premises. Bev Young leads a Digitisation Project and team of volunteer indexers who take the content of book indexes and add the names to our unique digital Datasets resource – currently at 14 million records. Batches of data – tens of thousands or even hundreds of thousands at a time – are regularly added to the Datasets by various individuals and indexing project groups. All members are encouraged to regularly revisit the Datasets collection and either attend the premises themselves or use the member Look-up Service to request specific information they've identified in the Datasets. The Look-up Request form is on the website here.

If you have suggestions for ways the Reference Collection can be made more accessible to all members, we'd love to hear from you.

Ideas, large and small, would be greatly appreciated.

Best wishes to all

Allana O'Kane
President

Now available through Moreton Bay Region Libraries here

The Queensland Agricultural Journal was published monthly between 1910 and 1989 by the various Agricultural departments of the Queensland State Government. The journals contain information regarding pest management, farming techniques, stock management, veterinary procedures and general information that was used by farmers (eg. rainfall, market prices, planting schedules, advertisements, soil analyses, fertilizers etc.). This information may be useful to local and family history researchers.

Moreton Bay Heritage Festival

Our people. Our places. Our stories

History 360

Celebrate Moreton Bay's rich history at the inaugural History 360 Festival from Friday 25 August to Sunday 3 September 2023.

History 360 Festival looks at the region's local history from all angles and perspectives and unveils some of our region's best kept secrets.

Over the 10 days of the festival there will be an array of events all over the Moreton Bay region:

- Uncover the hidden secrets of Moreton Bay on a variety of walking and bus tours.
- Learn more about our cultural heritage through the rich flavours of First Nations foods.
- Discover the stories of those who have passed in a guided tour of Moreton Bay's oldest cemetery.
- Indulge in immersive dining experiences and the sounds of an organ that is 140 years old.
- Explore the treasured history of the Australian motoring giant at the Classic Holden car show.

Find out more about the full festival program on the City of Moreton Bay website here.
