About the topics

- The stimuli are suggestions only: you may choose to write on the given theme, or on something completely different
- Remember, it is your choice whether
  - you write at all or just come along to enjoy the fellowship, or
  - you write on any suggested topic
  - contribute to the discussion

About the meetings

- New members are always welcome
- Our meetings are informal, friendly, and supportive
- After the meeting, we circulate notes rather than formal minutes
- Each meeting commences with introductions and general business—resources, seminars, happenings, etc.
- You are then invited to read your prepared writing and seek feedback if you wish
- The group aims to be constructive, helpful, and empathetic in providing feedback

About your writing

- We request you adhere to the 750 word limit
- Before you write, ask yourself:
  - Who is my audience?
  - What is the purpose of my story?
- After you have written your story and before the meeting, we suggest you read it aloud (to yourself or a captive audience) and check for readability and listenability<sup>1</sup>
Ask yourself:
  - Are full dates necessary and significant?
  - Is an exhaustive listing of all members of a family necessary and significant?
  - Is my meaning clear?
  - Have I used a variety of sentence constructions?
  - Have I used straightforward, as opposed to complex, sentence constructions?
  - Have I been careful with my use of pronouns—he, she, him, her, it, etc.?
