

What makes QFHS run?

Did you know that every benefit, resource, activity and service you receive as part of your QFHS membership is provided by fellow-members who volunteer?

Any seminar or workshop you attend, our unique digital records, Members Lounge or guest speaker events, our newsletter and journal, our extensive library and map resources as well as countless other IT and admin activities behind the scenes are all produced by volunteers. Without these people giving back to our society, it simply would not exist.

Sometimes you may notice a gap in our services and think 'why doesn't somebody do something about that?' or you may have a great idea that 'somebody' could bring to life; the answer to these situations is that we never have enough volunteers for all the tasks and great ideas!

Maybe you could be the "somebody" we're looking for?

Without these people giving back to our society, it simply would not exist. Caroline Brudell

What's stopping you?

If you've thought about volunteering and never done it, what's stopping you?

No time?

This is a problem for many of us but it is possible to suit tasks to your availability or to break tasks down to share. We value our volunteers' time and want the experience to be enjoyable, not stressful. As well as the time estimates provided in individual role descriptions at QFHS - Volunteers you can work within a team doing tasks that fit your availability.

Do I have the right skills?

There is a great variety of tasks and roles within the society. The role and team descriptions on our website under QFHS - Volunteers describe the skills and qualities we need.

Perhaps you could transfer experience from your working life or expand your skills by working with a team that could train you. Or, you could start in one role and move to another as you gain confidence. By the way, we also support training that helps with your role!

What's the environment like?

You can be sure that other volunteers you encounter share your interest in family history which is a great basis for building friendships and sharing tasks in a team reinforces this.

Having recently secured a lease with the Brisbane City Council we are adding to our renovated premises with further projects to improve member comfort. There are also regular social events.

What about safety?

QFHS takes the safety of its volunteers seriously. We hold regular training sessions covering fire safety, cyber security and other related matters. We hold volunteers' insurance and public liability and have a program that ensures the building and equipment used is properly maintained.

What if it doesn't suit me?

We try to understand volunteers' interests and abilities and match them with suitable roles/tasks. However, if things aren't working out as you'd hoped, please don't hesitate to contact Caroline Brudell, the Volunteer Coordinator, at volunteering@qfhs.org.au for a confidential chat.

There are so many benefits to volunteering with us here at QFHS and we would love to have you join our team.

If you're interested in learning more about volunteering you can find more information on our website here or by contacting our Volunteer Coordinator, Caroline Brudell via email.

Feedback Survey

From the Editor

What a wonderfully warm welcome to our new look Snippets! The feedback from members was very positive and I'd like to thank the readers who took the time to reach out and let us know their thoughts on the presentation changes. I've shared some of the feedback received in the Community News section of this month's edition.

Snippets will continue to evolve as we take on board our members feedback on content and layout. Each month we will include a short survey where you can provide your thoughts on the latest Snippets edition. The link to the survey will appear at the bottom left of this page and where relevant through the edition.

Moving on to this month's edition! Volunteers are the backbone of our society and Caroline, our Volunteer Coordinator, is putting the call out for our members to think about how they may be able to contribute to our society. As a new volunteer, I can say I have met some lovely people and it is so refreshing to have conversations with others that share my love of recording family history.

The volunteer feature is part of a new 'Spotlight On' series. Each month, we'll put the spotlight on an aspect of the society, be it a volunteer profile, a Special Interest Group or a fantastic resource we have available for our members.

Another new feature is the 'Research News' section. Here, we will share new resources we've been made aware of, research tips and more. We'd love your input into this new section - if you come across a resource you think our members may fiind interesting or a tip that's saved you time (and money!), please let us know.

May has a number of cultural dates and we take a look at Cinco de Mayo, a Mexican day of celebration, and our Australian Labour Day. It was fascinating to research how our Labour Day public holiday came about and learning about the sheep shearing strikes at Barcaldine. Also, be sure to check out the Famous Friday post written by our social media guru, Werona. The article focuses on Caleb Shang, the most decorated Australian Chinese soldier of WW1.

Until the next edition, happy reading and I look forward to receiving your feedback on this month's content.

All the best,

Chenoa Michof

President's Update

The Society is celebrating an important event this year – the 40th anniversary of the establishment of the Central European Interest Group in 1984. The first meeting of the group – which began life known as the German Group – was held on 29 April that year. Subsequently, countless QFHS members have been assisted, encouraged and mentored in their Central European family history research over the ensuing 40 years.

To honour this significant milestone, we will hold a special event at the Family History Research Centre on Saturday 1 June 10am-12pm. All members of the society, not only current and past members of the Central European Interest Group, are invited to a special morning tea allowing plenty of time to catch up with old acquaintances followed by a few presentations. The planning group has arranged for some terrific raffle and lucky door prizes and a dedicated group is working towards a major unveiling at the event.

There will be guided tours available for those members who have not visited the new Family History Research Centre before and, for those interested, tables will be booked at a nearby Club for lunch together. A formal invitation will be issued in the next week or so and bookings are essential. We hope many members will join the Management Committee in celebrating the Central European Interest Group's 40th Anniversary.

We have launched a new project We Remember Them: our family's wartime stories. Details are provided elsewhere in Snippets and will soon be added to the website. We will capture stories from the homefront, both here in Australia and wherever was 'home' to your ancestors, as well as of those serving in various theatres of war in whatever capacity that may have been. The creation of a virtual Honour Board will be a permanent record of our family's wartime experiences and allow for additions over 2024 and the years beyond. The design of a dataset from the names, locations, and other details will add to information that members can access via the Society's research-data-rich Datasearch facility.

Thank you to the members who attended the General Meeting held on 26 March. In addition to receiving interesting reports from the Management Committee on the Society's financial position and activities undertaken towards achievement of the Society's strategic priorities, members also voted to accept the proposed increases in membership and other fees. We do appreciate our members attendance and expressions of support for the work that Management Committee is doing for betterment of the Society and its members.

Thank you, also, to the Library Assistants (LAs) who attended the quarterly LA Training and Consultation session earlier in April. Library Assistants are often the first contact the public has with the Society so to call them our ambassadors is no overstatement. They are also of considerable value to the members who visit the Research Centre providing helpful interactions and integral to undertakings such as the clearance sale of Unlock The Past titles. We are grateful to the 32 members who volunteer as Library Assistants and keen to assist them develop skills and knowledge to enhance their role. Alex Daw and Nic Brett are developing a program especially for this purpose.

In the same way it takes a village to raise a child, it also takes a team to deliver many of our services and programs so thank you to Alex and Nic as well as the other contributors to this quarter's LA Training and Consultation: Dette Glenday, Pat Gardner, Carolyn Brudell, and Greg Crawford.

Best wishes to all members

Research News

Were your ancestors in Victoria?

Provenance is a free journal published by the Public Record Office Victoria. It's available online now - to access a full copy of the journal click on the map below.

The article, 'Tracing Ancestral Voices', by Kendra Rhodes, may be of particular interest to family historians.

The article outlines a genealogical research journey involving memory, emotion, history and archival research. It demonstrates the reclamation of lost ancestors and their stories, covering the inevitable highs and lows of archival research. At the centre of this research are Kendra's grandfather, Charles, and great-grandmother, Ethel.

Just days before passing away in 2008, Charles whispered into the ear of his great-grandson, 'you can't choose your family'. These curious words were the inspiration for the author's family history journey, starting with birth and death certificates and eventually leading to state ward records.

Is your ancestor a Scottish-Australian convict?

A new dataset is available through www.oldscottish.com relevant to researchers who have a Scottish-Australian convict in their ancestory.

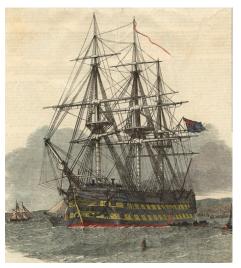

The dataset takes the available convict transportation records, which are available through the State Library of Queensland here, and links them to records of the Scottish High Court and Circuit Court were the majority of convict sentencing occurred.

The information includes:

- ancestor name
- occupation and residence
- trial details
- · journey details

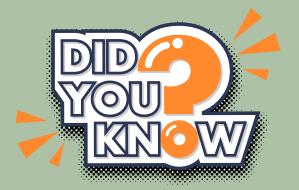

Information on the court case can then be ordered for a fee.

We Remember Them: our family's wartime stories

The We Remember Them project will gather stories from our members focusing on the wartime stories in their family trees. A virtual Honour Board will be created on this website to display an image of the individual and a few vital statistics. Each image will be linked to the story of that person's wartime experiences.

The stories may be of men and women who served in the military as sailors, soldiers, or airmen. They may have been nurses or doctors. The stories can be of participants in any theatre of war – Boer War, the World Wars, Korean or Vietnam Wars, Iraqi or Afghanistan Wars. Perhaps you are fortunate to have a family story from the Crimean or Napoleonic Wars?

But we'd also like to receive stories about civilians in wartime - residents of villages, towns or cities overtaken by war, or stories of refugees and displaced persons. On the home front, do you have an ancestor who was in Darwin in 1942? Or who remembers the headlines of the Japanese midget submarines being detected in Sydney Harbour later the same year? Is there a family memory of rationing? Has an 'austerity cookbook' been passed down through the generations in your family?

You are invited to submit as many stories as you like. They can be long or short and all writing styles are welcome. We will continue gathering stories during the year and will index the names mentioned to create a searchable dataset. This has the potential for members to make connections with each other that are not currently apparent.

While we are not all gifted writers, what's important is to capture and share memories before they fade. Don't leave it until it's too late! Our ancestors live on when we tell their stories.

Please use this link to head to our website and login. Click on the We Remember Them project link and submit your entries for the We Remember Them virtual honour board.

Cinco de Mayo (5th May)

Cinco de Mayo is a celebration held each year in parts of Mexico and the United States. It honours the Mexican liberal government's military victory in 1862 over Napoleon III's French invasion and attempt to establish a satellite city in Puebla.

In 1861 Mexico declared a temporary moratorium on the repayment of foreign debts. In response, a triad of English, French and Spanish troops invaded the country.

Whilst the English and Spanish troops had withdrawn by April of 1862, the French troops remained, their campaign supported by wealthly landowners and driven by Napoleon III's plan to remove the North American foothold in Mexico.

Image: depiction of Battle of Puebla, Encyclopedia Britannica

On 5th May, 1862 Mexican troops defeated approximately 6,000 French in the Battle of Puebla. Although the French did not fully exit Mexico for another five years, the Mexican victory at the Battle of Puebla signified Mexican resistance to foreign domination. About 1,000 French troops were killed during the battle. Cinco de Mayo is largely celebrated in the United States to acknowledge Mexican heritage and in Puebla, where a re-enactment of the battle is held each year.

Celebrations include colourful street parades with dancers performing to mariachi (traditional Mexican folk music), street food and in Washington D.C the Race of the Chihuahuas is held.

Image: Denver, Colorado - a Meixcan dance troupe performs to traditional Mexican folk music National Geographic

According to National Geographic, celebrating Cinco de Mayo has helped to bridge a gap between Mexican and American cultures, allowing Anglo-Americans to gain a better understanding of Mexican traditions.

Whilst some view Cinco de Mayo as an opportunity to indulge in tacos and beer, it is a day that continues to be of cultural significance to the town of Puebla and many Meixcan Americans.

Labour Day (6th May)

Labour Day recognises the achievements of the Australian labour movement in campaigning for workers' rights and establishing the eight hour work day.

Labour Day has been celebrated in Queensland since the 1860's however, did not become a gazetted public holiday until 1912. Prior to being known as Labour Day, the day and associated celebrations were called 'Eight Hour Day' between 1901 and 1912 - in recognition of the eight hour work day it is representative of.

The first street parade celebrating Labour Day was held in Brisbane on the 16th March 1867. At the time only a small number of workers had secured the right to an eight hour work day. It would take many more years, until 1891, before there was significant change to working conditions across Queensland, largely brought about by the sheep shearers strike in Barcaldine.

Image: Barcaldine Blade Shearers, 1890

The strike of Barcaldine was one of the first major Australian industrial disputes. The drpression of 1890 combined with the pastoralists proposal to decrease shearing wages let to tensions between the two groups. Over the preceeding months attempts were made to negotiate contracts and wages but proposed work conditions were still unsatisfactory. Sporadic strikes were held until 10th March 1891 when approximately 1500 workers blocked the Barcaldine railway and were met by two dozen police. The military were deployed and over 1,000 troops were sent to various camps in Queensland to assist with keeping order.

The strike committee was arrested towards the end of March (they were later sentenced to three years hard labour at St Helena Island), however the strike continued and in May approximately 3,000 shearers marched to the 'Tree of Knowledge' at Barcaldine railway station under the Eureka Flag to protest poor working conditions.

In the aftermath of the strike, the first Australian Labor Party was formed and celebrations of the eight hour work day were shifted to the first Monday in May, in recognition of the shearers protest march in May 1891.

Famous Friday: Caleb James Shang (1884 - 1953)

In the lead-up to ANZAC day, today's featured Queenslander is Caleb James Shang - the most decorated Chinese Australian soldier of World War 1. Born on August 4, 1884, in Fortitude Valley, Queensland, Caleb was the eldest of thirteen children, born to Lee Wah Shang and Mary Jane Noon. His family later moved to Cairns, where Caleb finished school at the age of twelve.

At the outbreak of the war, Caleb was working as a clerk in Cairns. The Defence Act of 1909 prohibited enlistment for individuals 'not substantially of European origin or descent'. However, Caleb, aged 31, defied these restrictions and enlisted alongside approximately 200 other Chinese soldiers throughout Australia.

Caleb joined the 47th Battalion, where his bravery and dedication earned him recognition. He was first awarded the Distinguished Conduct Medal (DCM) for his bravery and resourcefulness at Messines Ridge in June 1917, where he observed German preparations for a counterattack on the 47th Battalion's recently secured positions.

Exposing himself to the enemy, Caleb courageously signalled to the rear for artillery support and effectively aided in thwarting the advancing Germans.

The Bar to his DCM came in April 1918, following his exceptional bravery during the heavy German attack around Dernancourt. His commanding officer wrote, "This soldier's example has always been a source of pride in this Battalion, but on this occasion, he excelled himself by his wonderful powers of endurance, intrepidity and utter contempt for danger".

Caleb then received the Military Medal in 1918 for 'remarkable bravery and initiative' during fighting around Amiens. Unfortunately, during the Battle of Amiens Caleb was wounded in action. The war ended during his convalescence but when he returned to Australia, he was one of the most decorated soldiers of the war.

Post-war, Shang resumed civilian life, working as a herbalist. He married Anna Louise Kassene in 1923 in Victoria. They then moved back to Cairns and started a family.

During World War II, Caleb served in the 17th Battalion, Volunteer Defence Corps in Cairns. Despite his distinguished AIF war record, Shang faced racial slurs. Making a stand against discrimination, Caleb, fully decorated, marched in the ANZAC Day parade for the first and only time in 1943.

Caleb passed away on April 6, 1953, in Cairns. His legacy lives on through Shang Street in Mooroobool, Cairns.

If you are from Cairns or visiting Cairns, make sure to visit the Cairns Museum. The museum and Cairns Historical Society Research Centre offers a wealth of information on Cairns' rich history and heritage.

Meet the Management Committee

The Queensland Family History Society Inc (QFHS) was formed in Brisbane in 1979 as a non-profit, non-sectarian, non-political organisation with the aim of promoting the study of family, and local history, genealogy, and heraldry, and encouraging the collection and preservation of records relating to the history of Queensland families.

We acknowledge and pay respect to the traditional custodians of the land upon which we operate, the Turrbal and Jagera peoples.

This Month's Snippets Image

This month's Snippets header image is from the front cover of the April 25th,1935 edition of The Queenslander

This image is of a drawing crafted by Ian McBain featuring a young girl carrying a wreath in honour of our ANZACs.

As ANZAC day 2024 nears, this image is an appropriate reminder of the importance of commemorating and sharing the history and legacy of ANZAC day with our younger generations.

The Queenslander was the weekly summary and literary edition of the Brisbane Courier, the leading journal in the colony - and later, federal state - of Queensland since the 1850s. It was launched by the Brisbane Newspaper Company in 1866 and discontinued in 1939.
